Mr. and Mrs. Wagstaff Leave For Calgary

Mr. and Mrs. Wagstaff and son Jim have left Strathmore to make their home in Calgary for the future.

In 1919 he and Mrs. Wagstaff came from England to Dalroy, where he worked for the C. P. R. for six years being transferred in 1925 to D. N. R. Headquarters at Strathmore. Owing to changing conditions, Mr. Wagstaff resigned from his position in Strathmore and found work in No. 11 Manning Depot.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagstaff have been faithful members of St. Michael's Church during their residence in Strathmore. Mr. Wagstaff serving on the Vestry, also as Envelope Secretary. Strathmore citizens regret their removal, but extend good wishes for health and happiness in their new home.

PRESENTATION TO MR. AND MRS. ART HAY AND FAMILY

Saturday, August 21st, The Families of the C. P. R. Farm with whom Mr. Hay had been associated during his time in Strathmore, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Van Der Schoot for a happy social evening to gether, before the Hays departure for their new home in Brandon.

Various contests and merry conversation passed the hours all too quickly, for the 35 guests present. Choice refreshments were served after Mrs. Van Der Schoot on behalf of those in charge presented to Mrs. Hay a Waterman Pen and Pencil set with her initials engraved, to Mr. Hay a very fine leather note case and to the three children a Cedar Chest of Note Paper. A particularly happy incident in that it was also Mr. Hay's birthday added to the pleasure of all.

In expressing the thanks of himself and family for the warm kindnesses shown, Mr. Hay spoke in very fine terms of the pleasure he had enjoyed during his several years in Strathmore; of the loyalty and pride his men had shown in their work, resulting in so many prize ribbons being brought home to Strathmore.

He spoke of the changing conditions which necessitated the present change, and wished for them all the best of luck for the future. All joined in singing 'For They are Jolly Good Fellows' It was a very happy evening.

—INTERESTING BOOKLET—

Great interest has been aroused by the booklet, "The History of the Standard Colony from its Birth", which is just off the press.

It is written by an old timer of this district, Mr. Jens Rasmussen. Standard residents, new and old, will find many interesting stories of early pioneer days in the booklet.

Copies may be obtained from Mr. Rasmussen for a very small sum. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of the booklet is being given to the "Church and Home".

Mrs. Winston Churchill

Winston Churchill has his good points, and one of them is Mrs. Winston Churchill.

She is intelligent, tactful, a brilliant conversationalist with a sense of humor. She devotes her life to making home life pleasant and very easy for her notably tempestuous husband. She is without personal ambitions for the limelight, but is no shrinking violet, either. She can make a fine, snappy speech if necessary.

Has Strong, Classic Features—
She is mistress of six languages, a hostess par excellence to the many foreigners whom it is part of a Prime Minister's routine to entertain.

She is beautiful—tall, white-haired and distinguished-looking, with grey-green eyes and strong, classic features. She has a talent for dressing fashionably, becomingly and appropriately.

He husband, in his autobiography, paid tribute to what is probably her greatest quality.

What can be more glorious," he asked, "than to be united on one's way through life with a being incapable of an ignoble thought?"

Sees That He Rests—
Mrs. Churchill is a formidable tennis player, and a skilled gardener. She enjoys needlework and walks in the country.

But she feels that the most important function of her life is to see that her extremely busy husband gets proper rest and good food at regular intervals. She once told Lloyd-George that if anything ever happened to her she would leave written instructions behind on "How to Manage Winston Churchill."

THE OUT-SIDE

Some 20 members of the R. C. A. F. serving in Ceylon, observed Dominion Day this year with a bang-up Canadian dinner, air force headquarters have announced in Ottawa. The event was held in the aircrews' club at Colombo, and fliers representing cities and towns from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts participated.

Prime Minister Churchill's visit to Canada served in Britain to stir editorial tribute to the part the Dominion has played in this war. The London News Chronicle devoted a whole column to the Dominion.

Dr. L. S. Klinek, president of the University of British Columbia, stated in Vancouver that the National Conference of Canadian Universities at Ottawa will discuss the possibility of reducing fall enrollment of male students at Canadian universities.

LONDON—A circular has been issued by the Ministry of Works in collaboration with the Board of Education showing plans for central kitchens and canteen kitchens designed to supply hot mid-day meals for twice as many children as are now receiving them. By the autumn, three million children will be getting good hot meals costing from four pence to six pence (about seven and eleven cents). These meals are in addition to normal rations.

7,000 million dollars was the total of cash purchases made by the British Empire in the United States between September 1939 and September 1942.

LONDON—More than a thousand Norwegian women, representing every section of Norway's national life, have escaped to Britain since the Germans overran their country in 1940. Some fitted readily into war jobs, but many needed training, and for them the Norwegian Government in Great Britain set up a system of education. From this embryo, the Norwegian Women's Auxiliary Corps has taken shape; and many of these women are now trained in nursing, ambulance driving, office, kitchen, mess and canteen work. In addition, some of the women are being given full army training.

Prime Minister Churchill has been a member of Parliament for 40 years and a member of the British Cabinet 20 years of his life. He has made more than 3,000 speeches, each a finished masterpiece, and has written several great books which insure for him a place among the greatest writers of the English language.

A COUNTRY EDITOR SEES Ottawa

WRITTEN SPECIALLY FOR THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS OF CANADA BY JIM GREENBLAT, Editor of the SUN SWIFT CURRENT SASKATCHEWAN

THE C. W. N. A. CONVENTION

This article, due to my attendance there will deal briefly with the 24th. annual meeting and War Conference of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association. Digressing this week from Ottawa news, I think is justified because what interests weekly newspaper publishers interests readers of the weekly papers, those folks back home so closely rooted to the soil of Canada.

Mixing as we did with visiting people, important in the daily newspaper field, industrialists, public relations men, even statesmen and politicians. This time more pronounced than ever was their sincere tribute paid on all sides to the place the weekly press has in the Dominion's economy—in a personalized and concrete sense. And there was also a humble acknowledgement that the backbone of this Canada of ours is securely fastened with an unbreakable zipper made up of the men and women living and working and rearing in the highways and byways. You know who I mean; who they mean. So take a bow.

The Royal York Hotel in Toronto

was a fitting locale for our warvention. From a window high up in this magnificent edifice one could see the beauty of a peaceful Ontario and in the same eyeful a glimpse of Canada's war effort. Hurrying uniforms on the sidewalk below, long trains pulling through the railway yard, loaded solidly with grim looking instruments of retribution tagged for the Axis. A stone's throw away from that on Lake Ontario, trim sailboats scudding past huge freighters carrying grain, foods coal, physical armaments of a nation geared to a serious war.

Editors from all over Canada were gathered. Men who as Walter P. Zeller, well known business man characterized in a speech, "I firmly believe that upon you will rest, in large measure, the final attitude of a host of Canadians who ponder the post-war Canada in which they will live." Representatives of all you people, they were there from British Columbia, and Yukon to Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, from the grain fields of the prairies and the orchards and fisheries of the Maritimes. And it was easy to detect in the eyes of outside visiting personalities, big names of Canada, a suspicious nostalgia for the life of a country editor and rural people as a whole.

I sat in a room and watched a big name Torontonion listen with awe to the experiences of Father J. E. McGraine of Lac La Biche, 175 miles north of Edmonton—on the fringe of civilization—who ministers to Indians and halfbreeds, lives in and guides a Hospital, runs a weekly newspaper, teaches cadets signalling and loves it all. His sparkling blue eyes and healthy face glow with life. Just a country editor and a great Canadian.

At one breakfast I talked with Editor McLeod of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. A former bus line organizer, he had been a medical practitioner in New York State. Yet two years ago took over a weekly and loves it because he never was so near to Canadian people before. There was white haired Editor Udall of Boissevain, Manitoba, over forty years recording births, deaths and happiness of his farmer readers. "Wouldn't be anything else," he told me.

Mingling with the crowd well known Editor Barrett of Curling, Newfoundland, who now watches the "men who go down to the sea in ships" heading to battle U boat marauders; and there was a hand-across-the-border touch with fellows like Editor Pete Dragon of Eblon, New York, visiting the warvention. "Gosh, there's no difference between us folks," he said to me. "That's our job now to make the whole world feel the same."

The weekly editors heard some thoughtful stuff at their gatherings. Talked over ways and means to help prepare public opinion and thought for the post-war period. There's a responsibility so vast as to nearly frighten one. There's a job of tremendous implications, and this was emphasized by Publisher George McCullagh of the Globe and Mail, when he spoke in introducing at a banquet that out-sized but awe inspiring figure of a man Donald Gordon, Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Mr. Gordon gave the editors a significant thought, but one they are aware of and probably should more lend their pens to. He said the world war front looks promising but our home war front is "far from happy"; that wartime controls are losing the active public support they received under the stimulus of possible defeat. Here is one of his punch lines: "Many people fed up with restrictions and controls are tending to let selfishness rule their judgment, forgetting that in so doing they not only weaken the drive needed for the knockout blow to our enemies, but risk also the benefits achieved by their forbearance and co-operation up to the present time."

The editors met a now prominent figure, Hon George Drew, Premier of Ontario. In a speech to them Mr. Drew made, to me, a very significant statement in view of the momentous Conference at Quebec. "The best way (to answer isolationists) is to prove by our own conduct within the British Empire that nations separated by wide stretches of water can work in successful partnership either in war or peace."

They gave us spiritual food for thought too. Rev. T. B. McDormond at an 8.30 a.m. breakfast, spoke on "Christian Education Advance Movement." We were guests at a luncheon by the Boy Scouts Association. Chief Executive Commissioner, John A. Stiles gave one of the most inspiring addresses, asking for further support by the press to the Scout movement, to keep boosting, helping the Scout leaders in the towns and villages. Everyone was thrilled because he spoke of Canada's greatest asset, our traditional keys of the city after the lads had already pocketed them; Eliot Warburton of the British War Information Office, an Anthony Eden in disguise. Prominent publisher Smith from Australia; John Bracken in person, and among others such good friends of the weekly press as John Martin, Ron, Everson, George Johnston, Frank Prendergast and Cecil Lamont.

Something never neglected at the gatherings were toasts to His Majesty the King, and then "The President of the United States". The convention sent along an enthusiastic telegram of good wishes, expression of solid support to Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt at Quebec.

It was a big convention—one of the best attended. Shouldn't do it in wartime? Oh, yes. What these weekly editors got was renewed faith in our country, our allies, the United Nations and our cause. A better vision of what their job is for Canada and the world. All to be transmitted to you folks out there. It was worth a lot.

And besides, the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National, hard pressed as facilities are, thought it important enough to make it possible for editors from all over Canada to come to this important warvention, an appreciated gesture.

Approximately 10 more teachers are required to complete the teaching staff and as applications are still coming in from time to time it is not expected that there will be any serious difficulty in taking care of the situation by October 11th, when school is expected to open.

Gumbo School in the vicinity of Three Hills has been closed owing to low attendance and arrangements are being made to educate the children at adjoining schools.

Plans are under consideration to close Advent School and send those children to Level-Land where there is a two-room school building now on the grounds to accommodate them. Paddy Springs School was closed last year and the pupils transferred to Level-Land. It will thus be possible to now provide these districts with more advanced educational facilities.

It is expected that it will be necessary to purchase two or three extra vans to take care of the transportation situation throughout the Division.

WARWINTER

COAL WILL BE SCARCE NEXT WINTER !!!

Prepare your home now for adequate warmth with smaller fuel consumption

TO SAVE COAL CHECK THESE POINTS

✓ HOW TO GET MORE HEAT

Pipes and furnaces must be clean, and grates in good order. If one or two rooms are hard to heat, you are wasting fuel. A minor adjustment can probably remedy this. Have a competent man check your heating system, and make necessary repairs. Insulate your furnace and pipes when necessary.

✓ HOW TO AVOID HEAT LOSSES

Storm windows and doors must fit snugly and be weatherstripped. Lack of storm windows can cause as much as 20% heat loss. Caulking should be done around windows, doors and in cracks in brick work (some hardware stores have caulking guns for rent). Broken glass should be replaced, and loose panes puttied. Small expenditures on such work will save much fuel.

✓ HOW TO SAVE STILL MORE

You can save fuel and money by having your home properly insulated. It is a proven fact that in many homes lack of adequate insulation (including storm windows) results in unnecessary consumption of fuel—up to as much as 50%. Watch for later instructions on how to fire your furnace properly.

HAVE YOUR HOME INSPECTED FOR HEATING AND INSULATION DEFECTS

Get advice now! Skilled workmen and supplies are scarce. If you delay in getting your home ready for winter you may not be able to get the services you need.

TEA AND COFFEE RATION INCREASED BY ONE-THIRD

Tea and coffee ration to consumers

Teachers Institutes are to be held again this year in each sub-division as soon as possible after the opening of school for the fall term. The same procedure will be followed as last year to acquaint the new teachers with the Divisional set-up, the curriculum and problems relating to school management.

The interiors of the High Schools at Carseland and Kathryn are being redecorated during the holiday and it is expected that at least 12 to 15 of the rural schools will have received interior decoration by the time school re-opens. This work is mostly being done by the regular Divisional repair men.

All schools have been supplied with sufficient wood for the coming season and most bins have now been filled with coal.

will be increased one-third, effective September 2nd. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces that, in line with its policy of making maximum amounts of any rationed commodity available, this increase is allowed and that the ration will be further increased at any time when the supply position permits. It is felt that if ocean shipping conditions continue to enlarge the supply, another increase in this ration will be made before the end of the year.

The increase becomes effective with the use of tea and coffee coupons from the new ration book. The present value of the coupons will remain the same, each being worth two ounces of tea or eight ounces of coffee. The increase will be accomplished by having two coupons become valid every three weeks instead of every four weeks as at present.

Tea and coffee coupons in ration book 3 will not show the valid dates but these dates will be announced from time to time by the Board. The first coupons of the new book become valid September 2nd.

Last Aleutian Island in Allied Hands

ALL the Aleutian Islands, extending westward from Alaska to within 900 miles of the nearest Japanese territory, are now under Allied control. This was brought about by the capture of the island of Kiska by a combined American-Canadian force a few days ago without any opposition. The defending forces had evacuated. So long as powerful Japanese land, naval and air forces remained on Kiska, 1,500 miles from Canadian soil, the security of Alaska, British Columbia and the northwestern American states was threatened. With the nearest enemy base to this continent located on Paramushiro, this menace has been removed. It is the Japanese who are now under threat of air bombing. The Americans previously bombed Paramushiro from Attu Island, but hitherto their freedom of action has been curtailed by the threat of Japanese retaliation from Kiska.

With all the northern Pacific chain of islands in Allied hands, preparations can now be made for a more intensive bombardment from the air on the Japanese home islands, and American naval detachments will also be able to operate more freely in the northern Pacific. —Christian Science Monitor.

DENMARK

THE appalling condition of the people of Denmark baffles all description. A military set-up which prevents civilian communication and all other conditions bespeaks the tyranny of a being who has lost all sense of humanity. The sooner he is deprived of this authority and brought to the realization of his diabolical tyranny the better.

Many of the European countries present a picture of destruction suffering and want, the rebuilding of which will be a gigantic but constructive task for many years.

Roosevelt and Churchill Voice Confidence

IN THE speeches of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill there was an undoubted ring of confidence as they broadcast their messages to a waiting world following the Quebec Conference.

Each man spoke with the assurance of victory for the Allies. Prime Minister Churchill explained that the Conference had been held in Quebec at the suggestion of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill agreed that it was eminently fitting location.

The significance and tremendous importance of the Conference will be revealed by deeds not words.

That there is no doubt of the ultimate victory was the key note of the address of both men, leading to a world in which a lasting Peace must be established.

CHANCELLOR

By Mrs. J. M. W.—

A number of dinner parties have been held this week in honor of Fred Wheatley and Miss Veronica Modeste. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Phil Rogers entertained, on Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Strom, on Thursday Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dahl and Sunday Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Fenske.

Some farmers tried to combine their wheat this week but it isn't quite ready. Some fields of barley are done.

We are glad to report Beulah Jane Fenske is quite recovered from her tonsil operation.

Mrs. Annie Phillips went to the doctor in Calgary on Saturday, as her eye was troubling her.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Fenske and Beulah attended the funeral of the former's brother-in-law at Cereal on Monday.

Mrs. Ed Christensen is visiting at the farm.

Mrs. M. Knotiuk, Johnny and Helen and Rosie are spending their holiday at Kelowna, B. C.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wheatley and Fred and Miss V. Modeste spent the weekend at Banff.

Mr. Melvin Muir of Los Angeles, Cal. is visiting old friends in the district.

ROCKYFORD

By K. M. G.—

The Rockyford people were delighted on Saturday night when the weekly moving picture show was again opened. Many got in to see it, but there were others who did not know about it in time. Mr. Glendinning of Strathmore is again the operator.

Mrs. Bragg is pleased with the word she received last week that her son Edwin of the R. C. A. F. at Toronto is being allowed six weeks leave to help to take off the harvest on his Mother's farm.

Over 800 applications were received for the new issue, or No 3 Ration Book. The ladies of the local Red Cross undertook the distribution for this district on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the week.

What might have proved a very serious accident occurred 1 mile south of Rockyford, when the tractor which Jimmie Miller was driving, cut through the shoulder of newly gravelled road and when he found he could not get it back he made to get out of the way. The machine overturned, catching his legs under it. His companion tried to relieve him but could not and had to ride all the way home on his bicycle to get help. Dr. Giffen arrived shortly after the neighbors had him out, but found no bones broken, but badly bruised.

Mrs. G. Pomroy has rented a house in Calgary so her son Charlie can be at home even though he is still under the doctor's care. He hopes to be able to come back to Rockyford about the first of October.

—CLUNY—

Mrs. Harry Smith and daughter who have been visiting at the Duncan Clark home for the past three weeks have returned to Vernon, B. C.

James W. Clark and Allen Clark returned from Dawson Creek on Friday. These boys have bought the Walker Transfer and are going to operate between Calgary and Brooks. Three trips weekly, going to Calgary Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, returning to Brooks the intervening days. We wish them every success.

Combining has started in our district and will be quite general by the latter part of this week.

LONDON—A Military Convalescent of Southeast Scotland is returning no wounded soldiers weekly to active Depot in one of the beautiful districts fewer than an average of 300 ill or duty.

KISKA ISLAND

JAPAN FORTIFIED KISKA— THEN LOST IT

Owing to the fact that a number of our Strathmore boys are among the Canadian forces now in Kiska we reprint the News Story from the Christian Science Monitor of August 23 believing our readers will find in it a special personal interest.

—By John Beaufort—

KISKA HARBOR, Aug. 19th.—Delayed— The Japanese had dug in deeply on Kiska. Their defences were excellent, their installations extensive, and their accommodation sufficient for perhaps 10,000 men. They landed on June 1, 1942, spent laborious months digging and building, and withdrew prior to the joint occupation of the island by United States and Canadian forces on Aug. 15th.

To see some of the Japanese works for ourselves, three correspondents today visited what is left of the Japanese submarine base, the main camp area, and the hilltop airfield which never was used. In fact, judging from what we saw and from opinions we heard expressed, it seems certain that the enemy never could have hoped to operate an offensive from Kiska. For our second trip to the island, we came ashore in a tank lighter this morning. On the way in we got a good look at four freighters which United States airmen and submarines had sunk. Three are beached, but the fourth lies on the bottom with nothing but the masts showing. Today the harbor is dominated by United States freighters, lighters, and landing craft delivering supplies to help consolidate our position in the North Pacific.

We landed at the small submarine base on the south curve of the harbor. Remains of a marine railway run from the water up the beach to a wooden shed which houses the blasted hulls of five two-man submarines. A Marine Corps officer told us they were demolished by the retreating Japanese. Some of our guards were sporting heavy black enemy rubber raincoats. We visited other buildings—quarters, storerooms, and a machine shop for making precision tools. Some of the buildings are roofless and most of them show the effects of fire and demolition.

Badly strafed mustard-colored Navy motorcycles and a small black sedan are parked by the roadside, perhaps for good. Most of the vehicles on Kiska have been strafed, or bombed, or both.

The road around the harbor from the submarine base to the main Navy camp is about three miles long, is rough, but is well-drained. Either it has escaped bombing and shelling or was kept in repair up to the last moment. Walking along it, we noticed a first-rate system of telephone-pole installations with which the Japanese strung communication and electric lines over the island.

After a half hour's walk in the mud and rain, we were picked up by soldiers who had salvaged a Japanese truck and were running it on Japanese gasoline.

All the way to the main camp we passed United States and Canadian soldiers who had set up housekeeping in caves and fox holes cut into the hill-sides. Fires were burning at the mouths of caves and our men were trying to restore their clothes and sleeping bags from the effects of the characteristic Aleutian rain.

Signs of Bombing—

The truck groaned to a halt on the steep hill leading down into the Navy camp, the main Japanese installation on the island. Considering the extensive shelling and bombing Kiska suffered, we were surprised to see how many buildings were left standing behind their tundra-sod barricades. All however, show signs of bombing and strafing. A few are completely demolished. A cement warehouse has been destroyed and its contents have spread and hardened in the rain.

The surrounding hills are pockmarked with bomb and shell craters.

Near the water's edge stands a plane hangar, partially demolished as the result of a direct hit. Although the biggest building in the area, it would fit half a dozen times in any of the hangars on our Aleutian bases. Here, as elsewhere, all the planes are wrecks. There is an unexploded booby trap in the hangar so we inspected it from a distance.

Near by the powerhouse has a hole in its roof, but otherwise is intact. Across a Japanese-inscribed instrument panel a United States Army engineer has written in pink chalk "Inspected and ready for use." Japanese dynamo soon will be giving us light.

Not far from the powerhouse is an underground storeroom. Strewn in the mud outside of its low entrance are fur-lined greatcoats, shoes, small suitcases, and some medical supplies. Warehouses throughout the camp were kept well-stocked right up to the end. There were no indications from what we found that the Japanese were suffering from shortages of clothing, food or munitions. Both at the main camp and in the hills beyond stores of canned goods, biscuits, rice and other food stuffs were found.

Very few personal effects were found on Kiska. What the Japanese did leave behind was evidence of 14 months of labor under harshly trying circumstances.

Rob Bell— Did you fish with flies? Charley County— Fish with them? We fished with them, camped with them, ate with them and slept with them.

bridesmaid, and Mr. Douglas Lister was best man. The bride's dress was of white lace over white taffeta, with net veil, while the bridesmaid was in paleblue organdie over blue taffeta. Both carried lovely rose bouquets. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Royal Hotel, attended by about thirty guests, and the happy couple had a hearty send-off as they left on their honeymoon by the last steamer, after which the guests enjoyed the programme at the Palace.

The bride was born in Strathmore and left with her parents for Rothesay Scotland when she was only five years old.

Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie have many warm friends in Strathmore and district who will join with The Standard in extending very best wishes to the young couple for a long, happy and prosperous life together.

BITS FROM A NURSE'S LETTER WRITTEN IN CAIRO, EGYPT TO FRIENDS IN CALIFORNIA

I know that when I get home I will undoubtedly pull my blankets off and sleep on the floor and put all my food in one of Dinah's dishes and eat sitting on the floor from my lap! I had an occasion recently to sleep on a mattress and I couldn't sleep! We feel very bitter about the strikes and can't understand what the American people are thinking about to let such a thing exist for even 24 hours. We are so dependent on our manufactured products and our boys over here have so very little.

It's really too bad that the American people can't feel a little of the "comrade" spirit that exists between the Allied people over here. We came in to one camp late in the afternoon and had no food. In the shortest time imaginable a nearby British unit heard of our plight and they brought bread and steaming pans of pork pie and tea (Oh, boy! how they can make it!). And another American unit called back their K. P.'s and prepared more food. It takes a "fundamental" life like this . . . to bring out the innate kindness of human beings.

I doubt any of us can be what we were before this war; already there's something gone. And if we can step out of this existence back to the old one, we will indeed have returned through the looking glass.

Wish that I might walk in on you and sit by you and talk for hours and well, just be home! But my grand bunch of girls and even myself are good soldiers, so we carry on smiling and singing all the time. Peg.
